Starlight Magic (Northstar Romances Book 9) by Suzie O'Connell

Artist Celeste Dawson is in desperate need of a tranquil place where she can rebuild herself, and for that, there is no place better than Northstar, Montana, and no one more adept at soothing her troubled soul than single father Brodie Dunn and his adorable little boy, Brendan. Two months after the tragic end of Celeste's marriage, the heartbreak continues. Her career is in jeopardy, her emotional state is deteriorating, and she has no will to engage in the activities that were once her escape from the world. With the help of her best friend, she decides it's time for a Northstar-style intervention with the hope that two months of skiing, solitude, and a New Year's resolution will give her the fresh start she needs. Brodie knows Celeste is going to be trouble right from the get-go, but he's irresistibly drawn to the pain in her eyes—he knows it too well himself to stand by and let it consume her. On the starlit eve of the saddest day of his life, he made a promise to laugh instead of cry and to help any wounded heart he comes across. He's sure that same attitude, his irresistibly charming son, and maybe a little starlight magic will do wonders for Celeste... if his apparent inability to take anything seriously doesn't drive her mad first.
